Snow Days

Thank you for your understanding on snowy days such as yesterday. I always try to inform parents as early as possible that we are open. I send text messages out and put updates on our Facebook page.

I have to assess the situation such as:

- has the caretaker been able to open the school and clear a safe pathway into the building
- will enough staff make it into school to cover classes
- will the kitchen staff be able to come in to prepare lunches

I am really proud to say that Cockton Hill Infants' School has NEVER CLOSED for inclement weather and I hope this will continue.

I understand that everyone has different circumstances – sometimes it is just not possible for parents to get their children into school in such difficult travelling conditions, even if the school is open. Some of the footpaths and side roads are really slippery and remain so today!

Well done to all those families who got their children in yesterday and today. The children had a great time, they worked hard, but also enjoyed hot chocolate and building snowmen with their friends.

Congratulations to this week's achievers:
